Descripción del perfil

Stephanie is a higher education professional who enjoys helping young people achieve their dreams. Her comprehensive educational and professional background coupled with her vast experience in international admissions and recruitment provide her with the skills necessary to successfully guide students through the college application process. As an adjunct, with more than 350 teaching hours, she enjoys developing engaging lesson plans and applying a student-centred and active learning methodology. Given her educational background, and public speaking skills, she conducts excellent workshops about Positive Psychology
