Descripción del perfil

My name is Alexis and I am a Talent Acquisition specialist with over a decade of experience in international recruitment, HR, career coaching, and job search optimisation. Over the course of my career, I have worked with HBO, STARZ, top international business schools, and other companies spanning a variety of areas. Currently, I lead talent acquisition efforts for Dorilton Capital, a family equity investment firm in New York and their portfolio companies, and continue to manage all talent and recruitment efforts for HBO España and HBO Portugal. My introduction to international recruitment began at STARZ Play, a partnership with U.S. based satellite channel STARZ that provides premium subscription VOD service to the MENA markets. I was largely focused on recruitment and talent across Europe and the Middle East, although I was also charged with building an HR department from scratch. Successes included growing the company from less than 10 employees to over 70 in 18 months and creating scalable HR policies for two regions. In 2013, I broadened my reach and began focusing on helping others by launching my own HR/career services boutique that caters to both companies and private clients. Career Rockstars helps companies on a wide spectrum of areas, ranging from recruitment to the creation of HR departments and more. On the client side, I help clients find what I call their "inner rock stars". My belief is that the same attributes that make a great rock star are what also make a great professional. My specialties include job search optimisation, CV/cover letter writing, and LinkedIn profile optimization. That same year, I started collaborating with REA - Partners in Transition as an International Career Consultant. My goal with career consulting is to help others understand and, more importantly, harness their potential to help them advance in their careers.
